KeyMacro is one of the best screen recording tools out there. Its unique feature that sets it apart from the crowd, however, is the use of motion detection. Motion detection is able to take a screenshot of every single motion on your screen. This, of course, allows for the creation of more animated videos and, therefore, more interesting content. Furthermore, KeyMacro has lots of extra features such as watermark removal, text and image editing, online streaming, etc. It's also a completely free app, which is definitely a plus. Main features: - motion detection - screenshot with fade - online streaming (bitrate limited) - (optional) watermark removal - video trimming - text and image editing - ability to save videos to Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, etc. - watermark removal - undo/redo - custom frames/graphics - online streaming (bitrate limited) - online cloud storage (bitrate limited) - and much more... What's New In?

TapeX is a free, cross-platform screen recorder. It allows you to record any application running in full screen. When recording, you can draw on top of your screen, and you can even add pictures to your annotations! This is a free version. It won't allow you to change the resolution, the quality, or to save more than 20 minutes of recordings. What's New in version 2.1.3: - Introduce new "Arrows" feature: you can add simple arrows to your annotations. - Introduce new "Text" feature: you can add text directly on top of your annotation. - Introduce new "Presets" feature: tap a preset to start recording without a menu. - Introduce "add screen" feature: create a recording of a single screen. Download TapeX - Android Requirements: TapeX is compatible with the following platforms: Windows (previously referred to as Windows XP, Vista, 7, 8, 8.1, 10). macOS Linux TapeX is free to use. TapeX is updated regularly. We update the app regularly to improve it and fix any issues that may occur. We also update the app for stability. TapeX may contain ads. There have been a couple of updates to the video on the page, which have been done in response to the comments we have received. We have also managed to get very friendly with the video makers and have put an amazing amount of content and awesome videos from screen recording applications and screen sharing applications, along with all of the other amazing features that RecordMyDesktop offers. Make sure you take a look at the following link: The below video does not incorporate any of the new content, to avoid the content being charged to your video maker account.
